List of Bindery Services

Binding of Personal Copies of Theses & Dissertations

If you would like personal copies of your thesis or dissertation bound for yourself, your family, or your professors, you must contact binders on your own to negotiate prices, shipping and handling issues and style of binding. While the Preservation Department cannot make recommendations or endorsements, they do keep a list of binderies that have submitted proposals within the past five years as part of the Request for Proposal process. You may wish to use this list as a starting point for contacting binderies. The three binderies listed below accept print copies. The Greensboro, NC branch of The HF Group is capable of creating print copies of an ETD. See below for more instructions.

POLICY:

As a unit of the University of Florida, the Binding Unit has a mandate to preserve, through commercial binding services, volumes held by the University of Florida's Smathers Libraries. The volume of work with which the Unit deals prevents it from both negotiating and managing bindery services for copies of titles not held by the Smathers Libraries.

Individuals seeking commercial binding services either for PERSONAL theses and dissertations or other personal collections are responsible for making their own bindery contacts and negotiating their own agreements, shipping arrangements, and method of payment.
